Planning an online chat, conference call or videoconference with participants around the globe can be difficult, especially when you need to find a time in the day when everyone is in their business hours! This world meeting planner allows you to choose the date for your meeting and the locations of the people attending. Your world meeting planner results allow you to see the relationship each location has in regards to daytime hours with proper adjustments for any locations observing daylight saving time, so you can quickly target a time that works for everyone. If you want to lookup different locations or a different date, click here to start a new world meeting planner session.

Please Note! This world meeting planner can only predict times using the current known information about each location's time rules. If you are checking a date far into the future, be sure to check back again later to make sure that a location for your meeting has not made additional changes to their time zone rules between now and the event date!
